

Daniele Baron Toaldo (Emba23)

Psychologist, psychotherapist and coach (mental, life, business)

My efforts are geared toward the growth of teams and decision makers through training and coaching for complex skill development.

I support entrepreneurs and managers in outlining and achieving professional and life goals.

I support accountability and involvement of all roles in the organization, co-designing sustainable strategies and developing an identity leadership model, based on the courage to put oneself and one's story on the line.

I have been involved in theater for about 20 years, and from my training and acting experience (in Italy and abroad) I draw inspiration for working with corporate teams to improve their communication, cooperative, creative and professional role management skills through the methodology of corporate theater.

At the same time, I carry out freelance psychotherapy, which allows me to touch people's deepest difficulties, helping them to discover and bring out unexplored or dormant resources.

Primary goal

Increase mutual knowledge through the exchange of operating methods that offer ideas for understanding and managing complexity

Secondary goal (1)

Interchange (who am I, who are you)

- methodological approaches and working tools
- prevailing professional experiences, services and areas of focus
- location and geographic areas covered

Secondary goal (2)

Production (you and I, together)

- project ideas to share or implement
- search for specialists
- provision of training content (peer training)

Secondary goal (3)

Support (of proactivity)

- reciprocal provision of space for meetings or business meetings
- activation of specialized groups
- logistical-organizational support for public initiatives
