A training methodology

Master in Insurance & Risk Management

The training approach adopted by MIB School of Management can be synthesized in the phrase: from knowledge to competence

The learning process is a combination of lectures, case studies and exercises to reduce input time and improve effective application of acquired know-how

The individual study plays an important role in the learning experience.

Field Project: during the training programme every participant is involved in one project. The project explores and applies newly-acquired skills and knowledge to managerial issues of strategic importance for the sponsor and partner companies
